THE RICHTER TRIAL.

IMPORTANT CORRESPONDENCE.

London, Received January 22.
Reuter's Berlin correspondent says that at the trial of Carl Richter, of the Tokyo office of Siemens and Shukert, electrical engineers, for stealing documents and attempting to use them for purposes of blackmail, quotations were read from the stolen correspondence.

One quotation from a letter sent by the head office at Berlin to the Tokyo branch in 1911 says: "It was really criminal to conclude a commission agreement with Admiral Fujii in London when our old agreement with Admiral Iwasaki still exists and is working faultlessly. Why then arrange with Admiral Fujii for 5 per cent. on the ship to be built in England and 2½ per cent. on all other orders for the Japanese Navy?"

The other quotation is from a letter sent by the Tokyo branch in reference to the fact that Captain Ide, then a member of the Naval Commission in London, had been criticising Siemens' prices. It deprecates any considerable reduction and says that the orders are all given in Tokyo, and recent orders had shown the firm's friends in the Ministry of Marine to be working reliably. "If Captain Ide continues to annoy us, he must go. It will not be hard to manage it." The letter mentioned that another Japanese official had a mission to find out what members of the Commission were not working for the firm and according to the firm's wishes. "Our friends here will see that they are removed or rendered harmless."

TELEGRAMS.

HOME RULE.

"COWARDLY SURRENDER."

[Reuter's Service To The "Telegraph."]
London, Received January 22.
Mr. Austen Chamberlain, speaking at Southampton, said no Colonial statesman would recommend such a solution of the Irish question as the proposed Home Rule Bill. Such cowardly surrender was unparalleled in history. Ulster in the last resort would save herself by her own right arm.

ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE.

ITS GOOD EFFECT.

London, Received January 22.
Reuter's correspondent at Tokyo says the Diet reassembled yesterday.
The Foreign Minister referred to the relations between China and Japan and said a peaceful settlement of the crisis which arose on account of the killing of three Japanese subjects at Nanjing was largely due to the Anglo-Japanese Alliance. He dwelt upon the remarkable growth of Japan's trade with China and the increase of Japanese residents in China.

LORD STRATHCONA.

FURTHER TRIBUTES.

London, Received January 22.
The Canadian Parliament has adjourned as a mark of respect to the late Lord Strathcona.
Mr. Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier paid eloquent tributes to his great qualities.
Mr. Lewis Harcourt, Secretary of State for the Colonies, and Mr. Austen Chamberlain, in speeches last night, paid tributes to the life work of Lord Strathcona.

SUNKEN SUBMARINE.

HOW THE VESSEL WAS FOUND.

London, Received January 22.
Oil floating on the sea led to the discovery of the sunken submarine A7.

Lord Michelham, in a letter to the Lord Mayor, suggests the starting of a permanent national fund on behalf of the dependents of victims of submarine disasters.

Difficulties of Raising.
It is officially announced that the submarine is in 23 fathoms at low tide. The difficulties of raising her are immense, owing to the weight of the hawsers and the inability of the divers to work efficiently on account of the depth.

Wonderful Flight.
Commander Seddon's flight, with a mechanic, from Sheerness to Plymouth, to assist in the search for the submarine, from the air, was a wonderful performance. He covered 350 miles at a rate of 80 miles an hour.

Buried in the Mud.
Divers have found the submarine lying at an angle of 45 degrees, bows up, her stern being buried deeply in mud. This further increases the difficulty of lifting.

AMBRYN ISLAND ERUPTIONS.

TEN MOUNTAINS AFLAME.

London, Received January 22.
Reuter's correspondent at Sydney says that a description of the volcanic eruptions at Ambryn Island given by Mr. Dowie, a missionary, states that one by one the mountains burst into flame till ten were emitting molten lava. The 2,500 natives did not display any panic, and most were conveyed to safety. About 100 perished, some in streams of lava, while others were drowned or boiled in the sea.

KRUPP SCANDALS.

SENTENCES REDUCED.

[Reuter's Service To The "Telegraph."]
London, Received January 23.
Reuter's Berlin correspondent says the Appeal Court has reduced the sentences on the officers in the Krupp case, convicted last August, and acquitted two.

THE "OUTLOOK" CASE.

Puisne Judge's Decision This Morning.

In the Summary Court, to-day, Mr. Justice Gompertz, gave his decision in the case in which Looi Wai-kee sued Corinthe Henry I, the editor of the China Outlook, for the sum of $1,000, the amount owing for goods supplied and work done. There was a counterclaim for $2,070, for wrongfully refusing and neglecting to print the paper, the sum of $1,070 being abandoned to bring the case within summary jurisdiction.

Mr. Norrington (Mr. G. K. Hall Brutton), appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. Reader Harris, of Messrs Wilkinson and Grist, for the defendant.

His Lordship said:—The first issue in this case is as to the time when payment of the printing bills became due. The plaintiff's witnesses put this date as the 1st of the succeeding month. But all the bills sent in by the plaintiff that have been produced are dated the ninth of the succeeding month. It is inconceivable that a business like the plaintiff's, which was on a very small scale, and carried on so to speak from hand to mouth, should not have even prepared its bills until nine days after the money became due. The money was needed as early in each month as possible in order to pay the printing staff. Nor is it possible to accept the suggestion that payment was due on the 15th of the succeeding month. I prefer to accept the story of the defendant that payment was to be made in the course of the succeeding month, that is to say, that it was not overdue until the 1st of the month after. The plaintiff's contentions are supported by the proved facts. Again, I am compelled to accept the account of the plaintiff, and not of the defendant, as to the manner in which the contract was arranged. It is hardly credible that a man of the defendant's intelligence should have concluded such an important matter entirely through the medium of a mere subordinate. I accept his evidence to the effect that the contract was really made by direct treaty between himself and the defendant. This carries with it the acceptance of the defendant's story on other details of the case. Then comes the question of type: Was it a loan or a sale? Accepting as I do the defendant's statement that he sent the invoice to the plaintiff, I accept also his description of the transaction as a sale in the first instance, and his explanation as to the letter of the 18th, June, 1913. It is admitted that at the interview at the solicitor's office he claimed $250 as the price of the type. This disposes of the plaintiff's claim, and there must be judgment for defendant with costs on the claim.

As I find that the defendant (in the counterclaim) was not justified in refusing to print the China Outlook, I give judgment for the plaintiff on the counterclaim with costs, the damages to be assessed by the Registrar on the basis that plaintiff is to recover any loss he was actually put to by the breach of contract by the defendant. I find that the plaintiff to the counterclaim used due diligence, and made the fresh printing contract within a reasonable time.

THE NAVAL QUESTION.

A CRISIS DENIED.

London, Received January 23.
The Daily News and Leader says there is no naval crisis in the Cabinet, which is essentially agreed on a policy of economy. The Daily Chronicle states that Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Churchill conferred yesterday on the subject of the naval estimates. The paper adds that the stories of their personal differences are idle tales, though certainly Mr. Churchill has been spending at the Admiralty with a dual disregard for money.

Cabinet Meeting.

A fully-attended Cabinet meeting held to-day (Thursday) lasted two hours and a quarter. Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Churchill left together and walked up to Whitehall.

More Treaty Ports.

Most foreigners in China will be gratified to learn that the higher officials in Peking favour the extension of China's foreign trade and to further this object have recently created seven new treaty ports in the north. This is the right kind of progress and brings the total of China's treaty ports to forty-four. The immense value of the foreign trade of China, under existing restrictions emphasises the importance of the step. Its extent will be realised when we mention that in 1911 the imports amounted to no less than $53,481,130 and the exports to $50,803,081. The question of opening further centres to international commerce is at this moment receiving consideration at the hands of the President, the Vice President and the Premier, for it is felt that the antiquated policy of isolation can no longer be pursued with advantage to China. The Government needs money and, considering the vast resources that have yet to be exploited, the surest way of obtaining it is to open the country to international trade.

Daily Press.

When Dr. Sun Yat-sen announced his scheme for covering the map of China with a network of railways, and said he meant to get about 200,000 li of railways (75,000 miles) constructed within ten years, he was widely regarded as a fit subject for a lunatic asylum. But the Minister of Interior has just publicly testified that in this connection, at least, Dr. Sun's dream was not so wild as it seemed at the time. The Minister was speaking at a meeting of the members of the National Railway Association at Peking, which was attended by upwards of a thousand persons representing the different railways and political organisations. It was at the last annual meeting of this body that Dr. Sun Yat-sen outlined his scheme, and the Minister of the Interior, who is the Honorary President of the Association, referring to this, called attention to the fact that since that date contracts have already been made with foreign capitalists for the construction of railways whose combined length would exceed 10,000 li. "It will thus be seen," he said, "that it may not, after all, be impossible to realise Dr. Sun's dream within the next ten years." It would be as well to bear in mind, however, that giving concessions is one thing, and getting 200,000 li of railways constructed within the short space of ten years is quite another.

Hongkong Rainfall for 1913.

It is often remarked that average weather seldom if ever occurs. The year 1913 was, however, as regards rainfall, a very close approximation to an average year. Not only was the total rainfall within one per cent. of the mean, but the monthly amounts show a much closer agreement with the monthly means than is usually the case. In May we have had a rainfall of 37 inches above and one of 10 inches below the average, but last year the most exceptional months only showed falls of 5 inches above and 4 inches below the average. The Observatory has now completed 30 years records, and this is generally considered a sufficiently long period to give the true mean rainfall of Hongkong many may thus be taken as 83 inches a year, and it may be of interest to compare it with that of other places. The rainfall at the Peak is about 14 per cent, at the Public Gardens about 11, at Tytam 13 and at Tai Po about 20 per cent. in excess of that at the Observatory. The mean annual rainfall of England is 32 inches, of Wales 50 inches, Scotland 47, and of Ireland 42 inches.

GENERAL NEWS.

A Vicarage Burned.

The vicarage of Woodston and Apethorpe, Northamptonshire, was totally destroyed by fire recently but the contents of the house were saved. The damage is estimated at £2,000.

Mine Explosion.

Two men were killed in the Great Western Colliery, Pontypriid, recently as the result of an explosion caused by a "blower" of gas becoming ignited. A blower is a stream of gas issuing from a crack in the side or roof of the mine. The men who lost their lives were Harry Bowkett, of Trebafad, and Evan Jones, of Treforost. About 2,000 men were engaged in the pit, and these immediately ceased work.

Fatal Road Accident.

The other evening Mrs. Laura Whiddett, aged 33, wife of Mr. William Whiddett, manager of the Prince of Wales Hotel, Garratt-lane, Wandsworth, was killed as the result of a collision at Richmond between two motor-cars in one of which she and her husband were travelling with Dr. Mason, of Tooting, its owner. Dr. Mason, and Mr. Whiddett were seriously injured, but the occupants of the other car were unhurt.

The Dockyard Fire.

The bodies of Pensioner Chief Yeoman of Signals Pook and Signaller Stewart, who perished in the fire at Portsmouth Dockyard, have been recovered from the ruins of the Semaphore Tower. Both bodies were burned beyond recognition, and were identified by their clothing. A funeral service had been held at the scene of the fire two days before the bodies were found. The Admiralty have made a grant of £200 to Pook's widow under the Compensation Act.

Income of London Charities.

According to the 39th edition (1914) of "The Classified Directory to the Metropolitan Charities," by Mr. W. F. Howe, the approximate income for 1912-13 of the metropolitan charities was £3,083,788 for 728 institutions. This compares with £3,219,011 for 731 institutions in 1911-12—a fall of £135,223. The chief part of the decrease is in Home and Foreign Missions—namely, £115,823. There is also a fall of £92,306 in hospitals, dispensaries, &c.

Children's Service at Westminster Abbey.

The revival of the children's service at Westminster Abbey, associated with the Festival of Holy Innocents, has been greatly appreciated during the last two or three years. The service has become identified, by permission of the Dean, with the work of the "Children's Union," which is the juvenile department of the Waifs and Strays Society. As Holy Innocents' Day this year fell on a Sunday, the service was held on Saturday afternoon. There was a very large congregation.

Alderman and Burglar.

Alderman Whitworth St. Codd, J.P., a member of the Camberwell Borough Council, had an exciting encounter with a man who had entered his house in Love-walk, Denmark-hill, on Christmas Eve. The man entered the study, where the alderman was asleep in a chair. As the man drew near the table the alderman sprang upon him, and, notwithstanding the fact that he is 70 years of age and received three falls in the struggle, held the man until some passers-by came to his assistance.

A Foundling's Money.

The youngest Christmas Day inmate of the Wandsworth Workhouse was a baby, who was found in a filthy, cold, and dark place, wrapped up in a rag. At the workhouse its clothing surprised the matron and the nurses by its excellent and even costly character. The sum of 30s., the amount of maternity benefit under the Insurance Act, had been found on the baby. No clue has been found by the parentage of the baby.

ENGLISH BOXING.

The Search for a Heavy Weight Champion.

The success of Carpenter over Willis has exercised the mind of the British public in many ways, as whilst some people were frankly delighted at the overthrow of a fellow-countryman, the more patriotic section of the community are disposed to adopt a far too serious view of the position, says the Pall Mall Gazette.

Possibly the apprehensions of the jettisonists are to no insignificant extent due to the unfortunate fact that too much importance had been attached to the justice of Willis's pretensions to championship form. If so, the recent fiasco might leave persons unacquainted with the facts to imagine that British boxing had suffered an irreparable wrong at the hands of the youthful French exponent of the science, and very possibly the offer that has been made of £5,000 towards the discovery of a representative British heavy-weight champion has assisted in confirming the impression.

In was in order to ascertain the ideas of an authority on boxing, who is, above all others, qualified to express an opinion, that a representative of the Pall Mall Gazette called on Mr. Bettinson at the National Sporting Club, and doubtless his views will be read with profound interest.

In the first place, Mr. Bettinson was most particular in saying that although he had not read all that has appeared concerning the £5,000 which is being offered for the discovery of a British white hope, he wished the scheme every possible good luck, though he added that he was a little sceptical regarding the success of the attempt.

"Struck a Bad Patch."

"The truth is," said Mr. Bettinson, "that we in this country have struck a bad patch so far as heavy-weights and middle-weights are concerned, but the light-weights are as good as they ever were, perhaps better as a lot."

"But do you think it will last?"

"Of course it won't; perhaps in two or three years, or even less, the position may be reversed. You don't expect the Derby to be always won by a bad horse because the three-year-olds of a particular season are moderate, and it's just the same with athletes of all kinds—they vary in different periods."

"Well, won't the £5,000 ensure the good men appearing?"

"I must say that I can't see it. No money can produce what isn't there, and there is plenty of money already forthcoming to encourage merit if the men are in existence. To be candid, I think that there is a great deal too much money given to baddling pugilists, and this, in addition to the laudations of injudicious friends, is apt to turn their heads."

"A lad should begin at the bottom like Carpenter did, and work his way up by merit, and then is the time to reward him liberally."

"But don't you think there may be latent champions amongst the pitmen of Lancashire and Yorkshire who want discovering?"

"Of course I do, but there is quite as much money now offered for novices as is likely to be good for them. Just think what splendid work the Army and Navy are doing in that direction along."

"Then you think one of the Services will produce the forthcoming champion?"

"A British Champion will come. Indeed, I don't think anything of the sort, as I should be sorry to suggest what quarter he will appear from—but come he will, I'm certain. Besides, isn't it only fair and within the natural view of things that the Frenchmen should possess a champion?"

"They certainly deserve to do so, as they have spent money towards that end, and spent it wisely, too; so now that Carpenter has gained the position by dint of hard work and merit, why on earth should we be either scared or surprised?"

"It's positively refreshing to listen to your optimistic opinions, Mr. Bettinson."

DOCTORS AND THE INSURANCE ACT.

The Effect on Incomes.

In the course of an article on the insufficient pay and prospects of junior medical officers in asylums and public institutions, a correspondent of the Times points out that one of the results of the National Insurance Act has been a greatly increased demand for doctors.

The Act came into force on January 15, just when the annual influenza-bronchitis epidemic was about to begin. Within a few weeks it had become exceedingly difficult to obtain temporary assistance. Locum tenentes who before the Unqualified Assistants Act could be engaged for £2 2s. a week or even less, demanded (and obtained) as much as £7 7s. 6d. 9s.; actually, in a few isolated cases, £12 12s. The remuneration of assistants has advanced on an average about 25 per cent. A year ago one could engage so-called "indoor" help for £120 per annum, "outdoor" for £180. To-day the rates are about £200 and £250, respectively, whilst in some cases as much as £300 with rooms and attendance is asked for.

The shipping companies also have had very considerable difficulty in obtaining surgeons for their vessels. The rate of remuneration has risen from £10, per month to £15, even to £20, with, in addition, the right, not hitherto accorded except in a few cases, to charge fees from the first-class passengers. The naval authorities appear to be faced with the same problem. In the outlying districts of the Highlands doctors, tempted by the new opportunities, have in many cases resigned their appointments. Successors cannot be found.

The situation is remarkable and unprecedented. So far, at any rate, as doctors in cities and industrial centres are concerned it has produced something very like an embarrassment of riches. Their incomes have increased in almost every case. They have attained to a security of tenure hitherto unknown.

"I'm glad to hear that, for it never pays to be despondent, and the man will turn up in due course, sure enough. But mere money and puffing will neither produce him nor make him when he is produced. Hard work will do it when he appears, but big money to immature lads and flattery as well simply turns their brains, and are as bad for the sport as for the individuals."

Such expression of opinion from an authority such as Mr. Bettinson is surely entitled to every respect, and it is to be hoped that his views on the extremes of unwisdom of turning the heads of lads by mischievously instilling into their minds that they are reproducing champion form when they win a few fights will be laid to heart.

It is quite certain, too, that there is plenty of money already offered for profession boxing, and, moreover, it is quite possible that if there were less the aspirations of the public might be fulfilled sooner than they are destined to be, as large sums at the disposal of a lad who is unaccustomed to the handling of money does not always tend to his improvement in any sense the word.

Woman's Violent Death.

The police of the Southwark division were engaged recently in the investigation of the death of a woman, apparently about 30 years of age, who was found dead on Monday in a house in Etham-street, Tabbard-street. The woman's name is understood to be Dorothy Hargreaves. She had been dead at least 24 hours when her body was discovered, and a medical examination revealed bruises on the body and face. On Tuesday night a man was detained in connection with the affair.

THE SMUGGLING OF ARMS.

It has become painfully evident in the recent past that the traffic in arms and ammunition in the Colony is growing apace. That fact is amply attested by the monotonous regularity with which big seizures are made by the police. They are of almost every day occurrence and the weapons seized are generally of the most modern type, both in automatic pistols and rifles. And we may take it that, vigilant as the police are in running the smugglers to earth, the arms captured comprise only a tithe of those illicitly brought into the Colony. It is a profitable game for somebody, and the people concerned have been up to all manner of ingenious schemes in their endeavours to escape the watchful eye of the authorities.

At length the Hongkong Government has arrived at the conclusion, which has long been apparent to the careful observer, that the existing penalties have had, little, if any, deterrent effect, and consequently a Bill has been introduced into the Legislative Council which will give magistrates power to inflict much heavier punishments on offenders. This measure is an amending Ordinance to the Arms and Ammunition Ordinance of 1900, and the Attorney General, in a brief statement of its objects and reasons, says:—"It has been observed with regret that the illicit importation of weapons and cartridges continues rife, and the object of this Ordinance is to increase the penalty in order to endeavour to check, in some measure, this dangerous traffic." Under the old Ordinance the maximum fine permitted for illegal possession was $250 and the greatest term of imprisonment, three months. By the new Bill the maximum fine will be quadrupled, and the prison sentence increased to twelve months. The first reading of the Bill was approved by the Council at its meeting on Thursday, and, decisive as the new proposals are, it is sincerely to be hoped that the measure will secure the support of all the members in its subsequent stages and be brought into operation without delay. This step is one which has long been needed, for in the past those engaged in the business of gun-running have, without the least doubt, been encouraged in their enterprises by the knowledge that, even if caught, the punishment to which they could be subjected would be comparatively light in degree.

While it is possible now and then for the police to make a decent haul of arms or ammunition, or both, it is a matter of extreme difficulty to get at the persons at the back of this smuggling business. They are usually well protected, and the best that the police can do, generally speaking, is to bring the possessors to book. But it is the traders in this criminal business who should be made to suffer. That point is realised in Shanghai, which suffers much from the importation of pistols, and we observe that in a recent report the Captain Superintendent of Police there recorded with regret that evidence pointed to this smuggling having taken place from foreign ships in port. He did not suggest that the Steamship Companies had knowledge of this illicit trade, but he said there was good reason for bringing the matter to their notice in order that steps might be taken to prevent what was undoubtedly a serious menace to the peace and good order of the Settlement. Those words might very well also be applied to Hongkong, and it is to be hoped, now that the law is to be strengthened, that all shipping people will co-operate with the Government in its endeavour to mitigate, if not to stamp out, an evil which is second only in seriousness and harmfulness to that of the smuggling of morphine and similar drugs.

The Old Story.

We have to congratulate the Post Office on beating its own previous best record. For quite a time past it has made this office the dumping house for quite a deal of correspondence which is not ours. Letters for Government House have come here several times, and letters and papers for most parts of the Colony, including Kowloon City. But never until this morning has the Post Office sent us a letter intended for itself! Yet here it is, lying before us, a letter from Martineau, addressed "Monsieur le Directeur des Postes et des Telegraphes." We have not reached that hon-ourable position—yet. But if we ever do, we shall try to stick to our own correspondence anyhow.

The Next Premier.

It is only natural that the suggestion thrown out at a recent banquet to the Hon. Mr. James Bryce (now Viscount Bryce) that Sir Edward Grey will probably be the next Liberal Prime Minister, is arousing political gossip at Home. The possibility was voiced by the Marquis of Lincolnshire, who remarked that "no more worthy person could this great task be imposed upon him." It is now widely assumed that after the passage of the Home Rule Bill, Mr. Asquith will retire into private life. He is now well on in years—being 60—and more than once of late he has referred to the duties of office, which are beginning to tell upon him. Since he assumed the leadership of the Liberal party he has had much and fighting to do, and it will be generally conceded, that he has been a shrewd and far-seeing statesman during those years.

Other Names.

In contemplating the resignation of Mr. Asquith other possible candidates for the post occur to one. While Sir Edward Grey must always be considered in this regard, the fact cannot be lost sight of that by many of his own party he is looked upon as being too cold and reserved for a popular leader. Mr. Winston Churchill's early assumption of leadership is declared by most Liberals to be unthinkable, while Mr. Lloyd George is considered as tactless and emotional. The only serious competitor to Sir Edward Grey is Lord Halsbury, whose sound Liberalism and progressive tendencies, popularity and masterly intellect make him an ideal man for the office. He is the intellectual giant of the Cabinet, and moreover, he has a wide knowledge of foreign affairs. But it is doubtful if ever he would reconcile himself to the L. B. raiment of the Lloyd George Government.

Mr. Chamberlain's Menchman.

The Rt. Hon. Mr. Jesse Collings, the fidus Achates of the Rt. Hon. J. Chamberlain, in announcing his intention of retiring at the next general election, voluntarily brings to a close a career almost as curious as that of his great colleague. Coming to the fore as a self-made man he never forgot the rural poor. He sprang from that class himself but the fact that he represented an important commercial constituency never alienated his sympathies from the poor. His famous slogan "Three acres and a cow" was for years the promise of a millennium to which the peasant class looked forward, and while it did not, in itself, fructify, it drew attention to a quarter where reform was necessary and paved the way for many enactments towards that end. In 1888 while at work for the rural population of England he, by his "allotments resolution" caused the resignation of the Salisbury Government.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

The Opium Amendment Ordinance.

The meeting of the Legislative Council yesterday was still sitting when we went to press, and lengthy consideration was given to the Opium and Dentistry Bills. The Hon. Attorney General moved the second reading of the Bill entitled an Ordinance to amend and consolidate Laws relating to Opium. In doing so, he stated that the Bill was necessitated in consequence of the decision that the present system under which the opium traffic is regulated in this Colony should be altered and that the arrangements with regard to opium should be taken over entirely by the Government. It was hoped at one time that it might be possible to avoid having an altogether new Bill and that one might graft on the new arrangements to the present law in such a way as to dispense with all the formalities of a totally new measure, but when it came to be tried it was seen that the law as it stood was so complicated that it would be necessary to make an enormous number of amendments in order to bring up the Bill to meet the new altered circumstances. The Attorney General went on to explain that there was very little alteration in the new Bill from the law as it stood. He said the four parts of the Bill really dealt with separate things—separate affairs—and it would be simpler if he roughly indicated what those four parts dealt with before proceeding to detail each part.

Raw Opium.

The first part of the bill after the preliminary definitions dealt with raw opium and he might say at once that the alterations in that part of the Bill were not great when compared with the position which obtained under the existing law. The only substantial difference was that more effective control was given over the movements of raw opium than at present. The second part of the Bill dealt with prepared opium and of course here there was considerable alteration, not so much in the actual position with regard to raw opium in the Colony but particularly the alteration was due to the change which had taken place, the Opium Farmer his agents and servants being wiped out by the Bill, and the Superintendent of Imports and Exports being placed in his stead.

Administration.

As hon. members would understand, a good deal of the existing law was taken up in the definitions. The sole position was the relation of the Government, which was now the monopolist, to the public. The third part of the bill necessarily was a lengthy one and dealt with the administration of the Ordinance, and when he said "administration" he included the appointment of the necessary officers, the position towards the public and the penal provisions of the law, which were necessary to ensure its effective working. There was some slight alteration not only with regard to the penalties. The fourth part dealt with the temporary provisions which seemed to be necessary to ensure the handing over by the Opium Farmer to the Government of the business, and, if necessary, all the stock in trade and the utensils with which he carried out his operations.

The Council went into committee on the bill and Sir Kai Ho-kai dealing with clause 20 remarked that in that clause a person was allowed to have twenty taels of prepared opium in his possession; in the old ordinance it was only five. The reason for that provision was that no person would be permitted to possess a large quantity of prepared opium and so give him an opportunity to smuggle it into places where prepared opium was excluded. Now in the new ordinance five taels has been increased and made into twenty and he did not think that was an improvement. Unless the Government had any sufficient reason he thought that that five taels as formerly should be given.

HABEAS CORPUS.

Second Magistrate in the Witness-Box.

In the Supreme Court to-day, Sir William Rees Davies (Chief Justice) and Mr. H. H. J. Gompertz (Puisne Judge) sitting in Full Court of Original Jurisdiction, continued the hearing of an application for Habeas Corpus arising out of the Magistrate's decision in the case in which Chung Sau Nam who is ordered to await, in gaol, His Excellency's order, is charged with misappropriating $150,000, the property of the Kwangtung Government.

Sir Francis Piggott and Mr. O. G. Alabaster, instructed by Mr. W. B. Hind, (Mr. G. K. Hall Brutton) made the application, and Mr. E. H. Sharp K. C., Mr. Eldon Potter and Mr. F. C. Jenkin, instructed by Mr. R. F. O. Master, of Messrs. Johnson Stokes and Master, and Mr. P. M. Hodgson, Assistant Crown Solicitor, oppose the application.

Addressing the Court, Sir Francis Piggott said he would like to add one further remark to what he was saying yesterday with regard to the prisoner's evidence. He did not, of course, contend that the Prisoner's Ordinance did not apply in extradition proceedings, but what he did say was that the case was one in which discretion, owing to the circumstances of the case as Lord Russell said, should be wisely exercised. Their Lordships would remember that only quite recently the question of the prisoner's defence had been settled—that question whether he had a right to raise his defence. They would remember that Sir Edward Clarke thought that there was a suggestion that if a prima facie case was made out the Magistrate was not permitted to hear evidence in contradiction. In Biron, page 41, it was suggested that the prisoner had a right, if he wished, to give evidence. In the discussion in that Court, the question was raised by Mr. Potter whether it did not conflict with the principle that there was to be no weighing of the evidence of one side or the other. The Court having said they must not weigh the evidence of one side or the other seemed to conflict entirely with his right to give his defence, but what he (Sir Francis) submitted was that the argument was that directly the defendant tendered evidence it became a case of evidence one way and evidence the other which this Court must inevitably review, and he thought from that, that extreme doubt did exist for sometime as to whether the prisoner could even give evidence in defence and it showed that discretion had to be exercised with extreme caution.

The Chief Justice: I don't think there can be any question at all of the fugitive not going into the witness-box. The onus is on the Crown.

Sir Francis Piggott said that that was what he contended, and further that the onus was on the Crown first to establish the commission of a crime in China.

The Puisne Judge asked if it was not so that the Magistrate said he was against the prisoner then not having heard him, but when he had heard him it might be different?

Sir Francis Piggott said that certainly was the submission. He contended that what the Magistrate said was his usual practice was wrong in cases of extradition. He did not want to elaborate that point again as he had elaborated it yesterday. There was a comparison in these cases between the English and French procedure. He then quoted from the Extradition Royal Commission. "It was a matter of notoriety and not argument that the presumption of innocence which we regard as fundamental is not acknowledged in several of the greatest states of Europe on the contrary, the onus of disproof lies on the accused."

The Puisne Judge: When the Magistrate understood that he was going to give evidence, he administered a caution to him?

The Puisne Judge: It is not the usual practice for the Magistrate to try and get the prisoner to give evidence.

Sir Francis Piggott: No, but that is what he said. It is not usual in the Courts in England, and what he said was "I

The chess inter club challenge shield competition will commence on Thursday the 29th inst at 5.15 p.m. at the City Hall Library when the following matches will be held:—

Club Lusitano v European Y.M.C.A. Army v H.K. Chess Club.

The conditions are as follow:— Each team to consist of five men; each man to play two games in a match; each team to meet every other team once; points to be awarded one for win and half for draw. In the event of a tie in points between two teams an extra match will be played to decide the winner.

is my usual practice, more especially when there is counsel present—and what he does when there is not counsel present I cannot imagine.

Continuing Sir Francis said it was put precisely as the old justice which was administered under the banyan tree, but it was contrary to all English notions. The Crown had to show that the facts came within a decided decision of the Criminal law of larceny and embezzlement. There was a statement with regard to the hopeless state of English criminal law more especially with regard to larceny. His point was that in a simple case there was not the slightest difficulty because the point was covered by an authority which everybody knew, but his point was that directly the facts became exceedingly complicated or that it was very difficult to say where the asportation, the criminal intent was, then he submitted the burden was on the Crown to show that it was not a doubtful case at all, but that it came within a decided decision. The case was complicated. Even in Hongkong it would come up on appeal to know whether or not those facts did constitute larceny or embezzlement. The point was simply this—larceny is an extradition crime, but directly they came to a doubtful question of larceny, the Court must go to the Magistrate and say "Here is a clear case of larceny within the decisions." The question was not for the Magistrate, but for the Court to lay down.

The Puisne Judge:—Has a Magistrate to say this is a difficult case, I won't decide personally.

Sir Francis Piggott: I think so and I don't finish from it in the least. The Crown in this case simply points to it as a simple case of larceny, as Mr. Slade said in his opening speech,—"It was a case of the man being in possession that isn't his."

John R. Wood, second Magistrate, was put in the Witness-box this afternoon, by the Chief Justice, and deposed that the depositions, produced, were the ones he took. To the best of his recollection when the evidence was read over to the witness he objected to certain passages and he put a cross line through the evidence given and made a note adding the evidence he gave. Counsel were not in Court when the evidence was corrected.

The Chief Justice: When you take down depositions in ordinary criminal proceedings, ordinary indictable offences, the custom is to read the depositions over to the witness?

Witness: The Custom is except in Summary jurisdiction, to read over the deposition to the witness.

The Chief Justice: Supposing in the ordinary way you read over the deposition and in some instances he says, "I did not say that," what course do you adopt?

Witness: In the usual course I would make the correction and initial it.

The Chief Justice: In the text of the evidence, is it a customary thing to add to a marginal note "Witness says—"? 2.

Witness: I have made a correctional note.

The Chief Justice: It makes this difference. The deposition on which you struck out certain words would appear as though it was not the original and the statement made one day be wholly at variance with the other.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

His Excellency replied:—You are quite right. It was an error and we were going to correct it and bring it down to five taels.

Another point raised by Sir Kai Ho Kai was in connection with section 45 where power is given to European revenue officers to search premises for opium illegally stored therein, in cases of emergency without a warrant. The Hon. member was of the opinion that there should be some means of preventing abuse.

The Attorney General replied that there were cases which were of great urgency where it was necessary to proceed without a warrant. Hon. Colonial Treasurer:—This is a point which has been discussed in connection with the arms and liquor ordinance.

Sir Kai Ho Kai:—The repetition of discussion shows constant danger.

No Danger.

Hon. Colonial Treasurer:—There is no danger.

Sir Kai Ho Kai:—There is a good deal of feeling on the matter among Chinese and I think the matter may be left over.

The clause was left for further consideration.

Section 55, subsection 5, read:—(5) If any ship is used for the importation, landing, removal, carriage or conveyance or for the exportation of any opium in contravention of section 46 the master, owners or agents thereof shall, on summary conviction, be liable to a fine not exceeding 5,000 dollars.

The Hon. Mr. Pollock said he did not know if there was any precedent for that. If the ship were proceeded against it was possible that the master would be fined although he might be innocent.

The Colonial Secretary replied that the question has been answered many times. It was a matter for the courts to consider.

The Hon. Mr. Pollock:—Oh no, it is not; all you would have to prove to get a conviction would be that the ship was used for importation.

The clause was carried on being put to the committee the Attorney General remarking that clause 71 in the old ordinance was the same thing.

Clause 62

It was proposed to delete the following clause, No. 62.

62. All expenditure on the purchase of raw opium, on the preparation and distribution of prepared opium, all charges incurred in carrying out the provisions of this Ordinance and all expenses incidental thereto together with interest on all moneys advanced or capital expenditure from general revenue for the purposes of this Ordinance shall be deducted from the proceeds of the sale of prepared opium and the percentage on account of the Defence Contribution struck on the balance.

The Hon. Mr. Pollock strongly objected to the deletion of this clause. In October last when the bill relating to the revenue was circulated to the Council there was also circulated a white book containing an estimate of revenue and expenditure for 1914. On page 119 of that white book appendix 3 there was clearly shown a deduction made on account of the opium monopoly. The figures there showed a deduction of 921,980 as representing a deduction to be made for the purpose of the military contribution and there was a reference to the same in a marginal note. The deductions for expenditure came to $921,980.00 and the net receipts from the Opium Farm were shown as being $1,651,241. His Excellency the Officer administering the Government referring to the military contribution in the Budget speech said the defence contribution showed an increase of $256,194 the calculation of this item being shown on appendix 3. It appeared from the speech of His Excellency the Officer administering the Government that as a matter of fact the amount to be deducted for expenses in connection with the opium farm was not $921,980 but $303,000 or in round figures $1,000,000, not $921,980.

SPECIAL CABLES.

TERRIBLE SHANGHAI TRAGEDY.

GERMAN LADY FOUND HACKED TO PIECES.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Shanghai, Received Jan. 23.

Frau Neumann, the wife of a German butcher, was discovered this morning hacked to pieces at her residence in the middle of the Settlement.

Her husband is at present in hospital.

The deceased's jewel box and $20,000 worth of property were stolen.

withstanding that deduction there was an increase in the military contribution of $256,194 and if the future sums amounted roughly to $1,000,000 it would mean that another $250,000 would be brought forward towards the military contribution, above and beyond the sum which he claimed had been passed at the recent meeting of the Council. At that meeting the Military Contribution was passed with an increase of $250,000 odd but if these expenses were not deducted a further $200,000 beyond what had been passed would have also to be paid. He thought, and he hoped the other unofficial members would agree, that it was quite wrong that they should have to pay towards the military contribution on the expenses of the Opium Farm under the old arrangement under which the Opium Farmer ran the preparing of opium, the Colony did not have to pay anything at all out of revenue in connection with the purchase of raw opium, and the revenue therefore was clean and clear profit to the Colony. Therefore it seemed to him only fair—adopting a similar principle—that they should be allowed to deduct, for purposes of the military contribution the amount which had to be used in expenditure by the Government.

His Excellency said that there was not the slightest doubt that only net receipts would be credited to revenue for the purpose of computing the military contribution, but it was not at all necessary to put the clause in the bill. The military contribution was a matter per se. There were various items of revenue some of which were solely exempted and others which were exempted in part for the assessing of the military contribution, and this portion of revenue would evidently be one of these.

The Hon. Mr. Pollock pressed for the inclusion of the clause but was defeated on a division being taken.

The Bill was left in Committee.

Dental Surgeons Bill.
In moving the second reading of the Bill entitled an Ordinance to provide for the registration of qualified Dental Surgeons and otherwise to regulate the practice of Dentistry, the Hon. Attorney General said that it might be known to some of the Honourable members that this was not the first occasion on which an attempt had been made by the Government to regulate in some measure the practice of dentistry in the Colony. A Bill was introduced before the Council some years ago, but for various reasons, which it was not necessary for him to enter into now, it was not carried through. Of course there were considerable difficulties in bringing forward a Bill to satisfy everybody and to please everybody. Naturally a commendable thing would be for no person to be allowed to practice dentistry unless he was properly qualified nowadays, when the extraction of one's teeth appeared to be the modern panacea of every evil human flesh was heir to. Oral hygiene seemed to be the newest feature of modern medicine. Unfortunately, with a huge population like that of Hongkong there did not exist and he did not think it was likely there would exist for some considerable time, until streams of highly qualified gentlemen had poured out of the portals of the University—in this Colony sufficient number of really qualified dentists to enter, if one might use such an expression, for the whole of the population. Secondly one was confronted with the difficulty which at one time figures $1,000,000, not $921,980.

with regard to the great mass of people not very well off and who could not afford the fees which the qualified dentists naturally charged, and were entitled to charge? And the only answer to that appeared to be that until there was sufficient qualified persons they would have to allow Chinese persons to continue the practice of the extraction of teeth, and continue to carry out this minor dental operation as he understood they had carried it out for years in the past. Now that seemed to be the first point of importance in the Bill—that there was no interference at present with unqualified Chinese persons carrying on dentistry. The second point of importance in the Bill was that no person shall be allowed, unless he is qualified person, a registered person or an exempted person, or a class of person to which he would refer directly, to call himself a dentist or carry on the practice of dentistry at all. LOG BOOK.

Katsuyama Maru Missing.

The Japan Co. tramp steamer Katsuyama Maru, 1,770 tons, Capt. S. Kanetake, manned by about 35 officers and men, which left Takiguan on the 5th inst. and was due at Otemulpo on the 7th inst., was still overdue on the 18th inst. The agents at Otemulpo telegraphically applied to the Ryjjan Naval Station for the services of a salvage steamer to search for, and render assistance to, her if necessary. The captain H. J. M. S. Akkeshim sailed from Port Arthur in search of the missing steamer. It is thought probable that the steamer foundered in the recent storm in the Yellow Sea.

The River Pelho.

The Chinese Harbour authorities, together with a circle of prominent Japanese residents at Hientsin, recently made an inspection trip on the Peiho on board the ice-breaker Tung Ling. This vessel, accompanied by another ice-breaker, Kailing, left a wharf in the German Concession and managed to arrive at Taku Bar through ice blocks drifting in the River, completing the journey in about five hours. The water in the River maintains an average depth of 10-12 ft., which is almost as deep as in summer. Judging from the present conditions, this year is likely to be passed without the River being frozen over, and a run of steamers is expected to visit Hientsin much earlier than in a normal year.

Shipping Combination.

It is understood that arrangements have been practically completed for a combination of three large steamship lines trading between this country and Australasia, says the Times. The ownerships are those of Messrs. William Milburn and Co., Messrs. Tyser and Co., and Mr. T. B. Royden. All these firms own steamers engaged in the frozen meat trade and employed also at times as emigrant ships. Messrs. William Milburn and Co. own direct, or as managers of the Anglo-Australasian Steam Navigation Company, nine modern steamers of between 4,000 and 7,000 tons. The firm has been a pioneer in successfully applying the superheated steam theory to ships. Messrs. Tyser and Co. own eight vessels of between 6,500 and 10,500 tons. Mr. T. B. Royden, deputy-chairman of the Cunard Line, owns the India Line of 11 vessels of between 5,000 and 7,000 tons and three other steamers. It is proposed that the consolidation shall be termed the "Commonwealth and Dominion Line (Limited)." The scheme has yet to be sanctioned, but there is good reason to believe it will be adopted without delay. No public issue of shares is intended. The chairman has not yet been elected.

Hamburg-Amerika Line and Ireland.

The Hamburg-Amerika Line announces that it has appointed A. O. Horne and Co., whose principal is the German Imperial Consul at Queenstown, to be its agents at Queenstown in connection with the new passenger service with the port. The appointment of sub-agents throughout Ireland will follow immediately. The company further states that the steamer Rhetia will inaugurate the service from Queenstown to Boston on Tuesday, January 20. The Rhetia will be followed by the Fuerst Bismarck on February 13. The ships will also call at the port on the homeward voyage. The Times Queenstown correspondent states that the connection with Ireland has been mainly brought about by the action of Irish and German agencies and societies in America, and in time the connection will possibly be developed along lines which will aim at the creation of closer relations between Germany and Ireland. The new call is to be established partly because of the abandonment of Queenstown, to some extent, by other ships. The announcement of the call is regarded as the forerunner of other developments

TELEPHONING TO IRELAND.

The Longest Submarine Cable Laid.

The laying of the new telephone cable between Nevin, in Carnarvonshire, and Howth, near Dublin, a feat which has just been accomplished by the Post Office cable ship Monarch during heavy weather, has made a notable addition to the telephonic facilities between England and Ireland.

Until the present time the only cable available for telephonic traffic to Ireland has been that between Port Mores, near Portpatrick, and Donaghadee. This cable, which has been in service since 1893, is nearly 24 nautical miles in length, and is of the same type as that which was laid between Dover and Calais in 1891. Up to a comparatively recent date there were technical difficulties in the way of providing telephone cables except over narrow arms of the sea, like the Straits of Dover or the Straits of Larnac. The result has been that communication between England and Ireland was only possible over land lines through Orkney, thence to Port Mores, by cable to Donaghadee, and south by land lines from Belfast.

During recent years the design of submarine telephone cables has improved to the point where it was found possible to lay one between St. Margaret's Bay and the coast of Belgium and the successful working of that cable led to the decision to provide for direct telephonic communication with Dublin. The cable which, in pursuance of this policy, has now been put in service has a total length of 64 nautical miles (nearly 74 miles), and is the longest submarine telephone cable which has yet been laid. It was manufactured by Messrs Siemens Brothers and Co., and is of the four-core Pupin-loaded design, this being the method by which satisfactory submarine transmission is made possible over any considerable mileage.

The directors have decided to recommend a final dividend of seven per cent. on the ordinary shares, making, with the interim dividends already paid, 27½ per cent. for the year ended 30th September last, as against 28½ per cent. paid for the previous year, the total distribution on the ordinary shares for the year 1912-13 being £1,719,938, as against £1,385,580 for the year 1911-12. The net profits for the year, after deducting all charges and expenses for management, etc., are £2,151,336, as against £1,031,159 for the previous year. Whilst the earnings justify a larger final dividend, the directors prefer to continue a conservative policy and materially increase the amount carried forward, which will (after deducting the final dividend) be £1,973,802, as against £1,058,680 carried forward last year. The directors have also decided to pay, on 7th January next, an interim dividend of 9 per cent. for the year 1913-14 on the ordinary shares of the company.

Cotton in Siam.

There is a distinct increase in cotton cultivation in Siam, and according to local press reports over 1,000 tons of cotton were sent down to Bangkok this season from Montkon Pitsanuloke. This short-stapled Siam cotton is sought for by the Japanese mills for manufacturing cotton-cloth. The Government spinning mill at Pitsanulok did not start working until towards the end of the season when supplies were only available at a high price, nevertheless the cleaned cotton was sold at a price which covered expenses and the inland tax, as well as providing free seed. A privately owned ginning plant was also working, but did not prove so successful as was anticipated, largely because it was built for long-stapled cotton, whereas the Siam product is short-stapled. The Ministry of Agriculture recovered 92 piculs of seeds from its Pitsanuloke mill and, in addition, imported 32 piculs direct from Cambodia; making altogether 134 piculs of seed available for free distribution for the present planting season. This is sufficient to plant some 6,000 rai (2,400 acres), and given fair conditions should yield about 18,000 piculs of cotton. Planting was proceeding all over the Monthon Pitsanuloke at the beginning of November on the subsiding of the floods. In the district of Sawankaloke, which has recently come into the cotton zone, planting is usually done when the rains commence in May, but this year the flooding of the river has led to the deposit of an unusual amount of silt, and so planting has been done now instead.

RECORD OF TONS REVENUE.

Mr. F. A. Aglen, Inspector General of the Maritime Customs on the 2nd January reported that the total Customs revenue for 1913 amounted to Tls. 43,900,000 which at an average exchange of three shillings and five-eighths of a penny is equivalent to £8,708,479. Compared with 1912, during which the previous highest amount was collected, there is a gain of Tls. 4,000,000. Most ports show an increase. Shanghai, Tientsin, Hankow and Canton each show record receipts and together are responsible for nearly Tls. 25,000,000. The totals of Chinkiang, Wuhu, Kinkiang and Amoy show a falling off. The Maritime Customs revenue have been sufficient to meet the payment of all loans secured upon them as well as the entire Boxer Indemnity charge for 1913.

Abolition of the Japanese Business Tax.

There is no point on which the whole population of Japan finds itself in such complete agreement as in its desire to have the taxes reduced. A proposal was made lately amongst the members of the Tokyo Municipal Assembly to obtain the total abolition of the business tax, which is generally considered a most onerous impost. The last meeting of the Assembly in December appointed a committee to see to the carrying-out of the proposal. The committee is to start its campaign almost immediately. On Sunday afternoon (4th instant), those members of the Assembly chiefly interested in the matter met a number of journalists who are supporting the scheme at the Matsumoto-ko, Hibiya Park. It was agreed to organize a league for accomplishing the abolition of the business tax, and to issue a manifesto for its organization. It was further agreed that a meeting of Diet members representing all parties, leading business-men, members of the Tokyo Municipal Assembly, and journalists, should be called on the afternoon of the 10th inst. at the Matsumoto-ko, and that efforts should be made to induce the present session of the Diet to carry out the measure. The league, when formed, will distribute a manifesto over the country, and later on call a mass meeting in Tokyo.

A Tango Tragedy.

The Tango has been responsible for a tragedy at Many, Louisiana, where a man named Henry Leona was fatally stabbed at a ball by a wealthy Southern planter named Tate. Leona, who was the undisputed beau of Many, requested Miss Lillian Winters, the belle of the town, to accompany him in the Tango, but Mr. Tate, who is Miss Winters's fiancé, objected. However, while her lover was absent from the ball-room Miss Winters and Mr. Leona, says a New York correspondent, danced the Tango, and the enraged planter, returning, stabbed the latter to the heart.
